Long-awaited Bayou Caddy marina opens

BY ED LEPOMA
About an hour before Hancock County officials gathered Tuesday to officially open the new marina in Bayou Caddy, a fisherman pulled through the gate and began backing his boat trailer onto the boat launch.

Harbormaster Oliver Sahuque was polite, but had to chase the fisherman off. "I'm sorry," he told the fisherman. "But, you'll have to wait about an hour, because we're going to cut the ribbon around 11 o'clock."

District 1 Supervisor Jeep Ladner was on the scene too, and he said the incident points out the immediate demand and future potential for the long-awaited marina, recently com-

Supervisors OK P&H bond issue

BY ED LEPOMA
Money seems to be falling out of the sky for Hancock County.

On Monday, the Board of Supervisors authorized the Port and Harbor Commission, which oversees operations at Port Bienville and at Stennis International Airport, to float a $2.5 million revenue bond issue, which will be used to continue infrastructure improvements at the industrial park and at the airport, located off Hwy. 603.

Port and Harbor Executive Director Hal Walters emphasized that the issuance of the 10-year bond issue would require no need for a property tax hike, since they would be paid off strictly by revenues expected from the expansion activity.

The authorization for the bonds comes on the heels of a bill championed by the local legislative delegation during the recent session, and signed by Gov. Kirk Fordice. It provides up to $9 million in state general obligation bonds for $4 million in improvements to expand the Boeing rocket engine assembly plant at the Stennis Space Center, and another $5 million to create a high-tech industrial park at Stennis that will attract more aerospace firms.

At Monday's meeting, Walters presented supervisors with a priority listing of projects to be undertaken at Port Bienville and at Stennis International.

High on the list is the expansion of the rail car wash facility and outfitting it so it can also wash trucks coming in and out of the industrial park. Rail storage tracks would also be increased up to 12,000 more feet.

Other funds would be used to

Superintendent's race thins to 3

BY ED LEPOMA
The race for Superintendent of Hancock County schools has narrowed to three candidates.

After a hearing last Friday, Circuit Court Judge Kosta Vlahos ruled that J.T. Ladner of Kiln cannot run as an independent candidate because of improper signatures on his petition.

Hancock County resident Derek Nacaise had questioned some of the signatures on the petition that Ladner was required to circulate in order to qualify, and Vlahos heard testimony from 16 people Friday, who said they either had not signed the petition or had signed names of others, mostly their spouses.

Vlahos said the law clearly states that petitions have to be signed by the people whose name appears on the petition. Ladner had turned in 70 signatures, and the Circuit Clerk had verified that 60 were Hancock County registered voters.

The development leaves incumbent Supt. Terry Randolph as the lone Republican candidate in the Aug. 3 primary. There are two vying for the Democratic nomination: former Supt. Myrna Bourgeois and Mike Ladner, a career teacher in the Hancock County school system.

Gator gathering

This pile of Hancock County alligators enjoying sunshine was captured on film by Lionel Bourgeois while he was out taking digital photos of wild flowers. Bourgeois said this group was about 4 ft. in length with others 8 or 9 ft. in the undisclosed area. Capt. Hank Boudreaux, Mississippi Wildlife, Fisheries & Parks, said that Capt. Mike Duran, the department's alligator expert, is working with the property owner to relocate some of the larger reptiles. Alligators are a protected species.

Bay Council decides to renumber streets

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Plans to re-number all addresses in Bay St. Louis won preliminary approval Tuesday.

City Council members stepped away from the notion of re-naming several streets, however, and agreed they'd prefer to erase existing confusion by relying on the new numbering system.

Council came to its consensus after holding a public hearing, which drew no speakers. Officials say an ordinance will have to be drafted and adopted before the citywide renumbering plan can go into effect.

Tackling the politically sensitive issue of street names and numbers has been years in the making, even as area public safety officials have complained over confusing addresses.

Out-of-sequence street numbers and some duplicative street names in Bay St. Louis have been troublesome for police, fire and ambulance dispatches.

The local 911 Commission, a countywide body of public officials, hired a contractor to study the problem in-depth and make recommendations for remedies by Hancock County, Waveland and Bay St. Louis.

The address study is an offshoot of the countywide mapping project completed through the county Tax Assessor's office.

Tuesday, consultant Ed Foster told Bay St. Louis City Council the local problem is worse than just having street numbers which aren't in order. In some cases, he said, a property has one number for a building that fronts on a street, and other numbers for structures that sit to the rear.

Another hindrance to public safety officials, he said, is the repetition of several street names in different sections of the city. In

Task force leader would like old Health building

BY ED LEPOMA

Hancock County's Narcotics Task Force has its sights set on the abandoned Health Department building on Dunbar Avenue, but at least one supervisor doesn't think it is the best use for the deteriorating facility.

Shane Corr, executive director of the Task Force, came to the recess meeting of the Board of Supervisors Monday to tell supervisors, "The Task Force has an interest in the building."

Corr said his seven agents are "tripping over each other" in an office area that is only 1,300 square feet, and the Task Force currently pays $495 a month rent for that space.

He said the Task Force looked over the building, which sits next to the Dunbar Retirement Village complex, and felt it could use its own money to bring the building back up to code.

Corr said the building would almost double the space the Task Force currently has, and there are plans to hire at least two more agents.

He assured supervisors that no prisoners are retained at the Task Force office, and there are no seized narcotics stored on site. He said locating the Task Force in the building would also increase law enforcement presence in the area.

District 3 Supervisor Lisa Cowand said she wanted to invite Bill Carragee, the Bay's building enforcement officer, to a workshop before deciding on Corr's request.

She later told the Echo she's concerned about the Task Force occupying a building near the Dunbar nursing home, and almost directly across the street from North Bay Elementary. "I don't think it's conducive to the neighborhood," she said.

"And, Dunbar Village has been an outstanding corporate citizen, and I'd like to see them get the property."

Cowand said Dunbar officials told her they want to build a facility on the property that would provide care for Alzheimer patients. "And, as someone who has cared for an Alzheimer patient, I can see a need for it," she said.

The long-abandoned former Health Department building is in a state of disrepair, Cowand said, adding, "It needs a whole new roof."

The request by Corr is the latest development in events that unraveled since county officials opted to put the property up for sale last February.

Initially, SentryCare, which owns Dunbar Village, submitted a bid of $76,000 for the land and the building, but that bid had to be rejected because of an error in property description contained in the original bid specifications.

Supervisors readvertised the sale of the property, and in March received another bid from SentryCare for $35,000. That's because SentryCare President Chris Cheek said he met with Carragee and was told the building could not be used for any live-in purposes or expanded on because it is one foot below the 12-foot flood elevation.

Cheek said if SentryCare purchased the building at the bid price, it would probably be torn down.

Supervisors rejected SentryCare's last bid, and a $30,000 bid submitted by local attorney Nicholas Haas, but they have not decided yet whether they will try to solicit new bids a third time around.

Accident occurs at McLaurin/90

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS

Waveland Police Chief Jimmy Varnell reports an accident occurred Wednesday morning. Patrolmen were dispatched to the scene at the intersection of Highway 90 and McLaurin Street at 6:35 a.m. and found two vehicles involved.

The drivers were Diana Bordages of Bay St. Louis and Grady Scarborough of Gulfport, Varnell said.

Waveland Fire Department and American Medical Response (AMR) were summoned to the accident.

The Jaws of Life were used to extricate Bordages from her vehicle, as it had been struck in the driver side door. She was transported to Hancock Medical Center by AMR.

In a police report Varnell said, "Bordages was traveling south of McLaurin Street attempting to make a left-hand turn on Highway 90, and Scarborough was traveling west on Highway 90."

Scarborough was issued a citation for a suspended drivers license, the report said.

"CUEVAS" QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I received a surprise visit on Tuesday from Katherine Blaum, a long-time resident of Bay St. Louis, whom I had not seen in 16 years.

She was flashing a copy of a book which she had just written and published by Prestige Publications, a division of Continental Ventures, Inc.

The title of her book is True Survivor and is written by her pen name of Kathleen Evans-Baker.

Blaum was an accountant for 19 years at W.A. McDonald and Sons in Bay St. Louis prior to her moving to New Orleans.

The book is a life history of the author, who found out when she was 42 years old that she was adopted at birth.

This was her first attempt at book writing, and it took the publisher only two weeks to notify her that they would publish her work.

After leaving Bay St. Louis she became a manager for a drug store in New Orleans and retired two years ago.

She is thinking about possibly doing another publication titled My Guardian Angel.

Arrangements have been made at Bookends for a signing early in July. They do have a supply of her books on hand.

On Saturday, May 22, Bay St. Louis Junior Auxiliary members will be distributing Poppies at various locations.

All proceeds from the Poppies go directly to veterans programs.

Your help will be appreciated. The young ladies will be out from 9 a.m. to noon.

School will be out in a few days for most area students.

Many will be looking for something to do during the long summer break.

Our Hancock County Library System has made preparations for many summer programs.

A big project is the Summer Reading Program for students.

Programs are to begin on June 1, and will be held on Tuesdays 10:30 a.m. at the Waveland Library; 10:30 a.m. on Wednesdays at the Bay St. Louis Library; 10:30 a.m. at the Kiln Library; and 10:30 a.m. at the Pearlington Library.

Reading is very important, especially for our youth. There are just so many "worlds" they can view through books.

Knowledge gathered as youngsters will remain with them throughout their lives.

We do have a first class library system in our county. It can continue being that way by the use of our citizens and continued support of the entire community.

It will not be long when the Kiln area will have a brand spanking new facility. The community of Pearlington just recently opened its library through the combined efforts of the Hancock Library System and Hancock County School District.

The Pearlington Library is the first of its kind in the state of Mississippi.

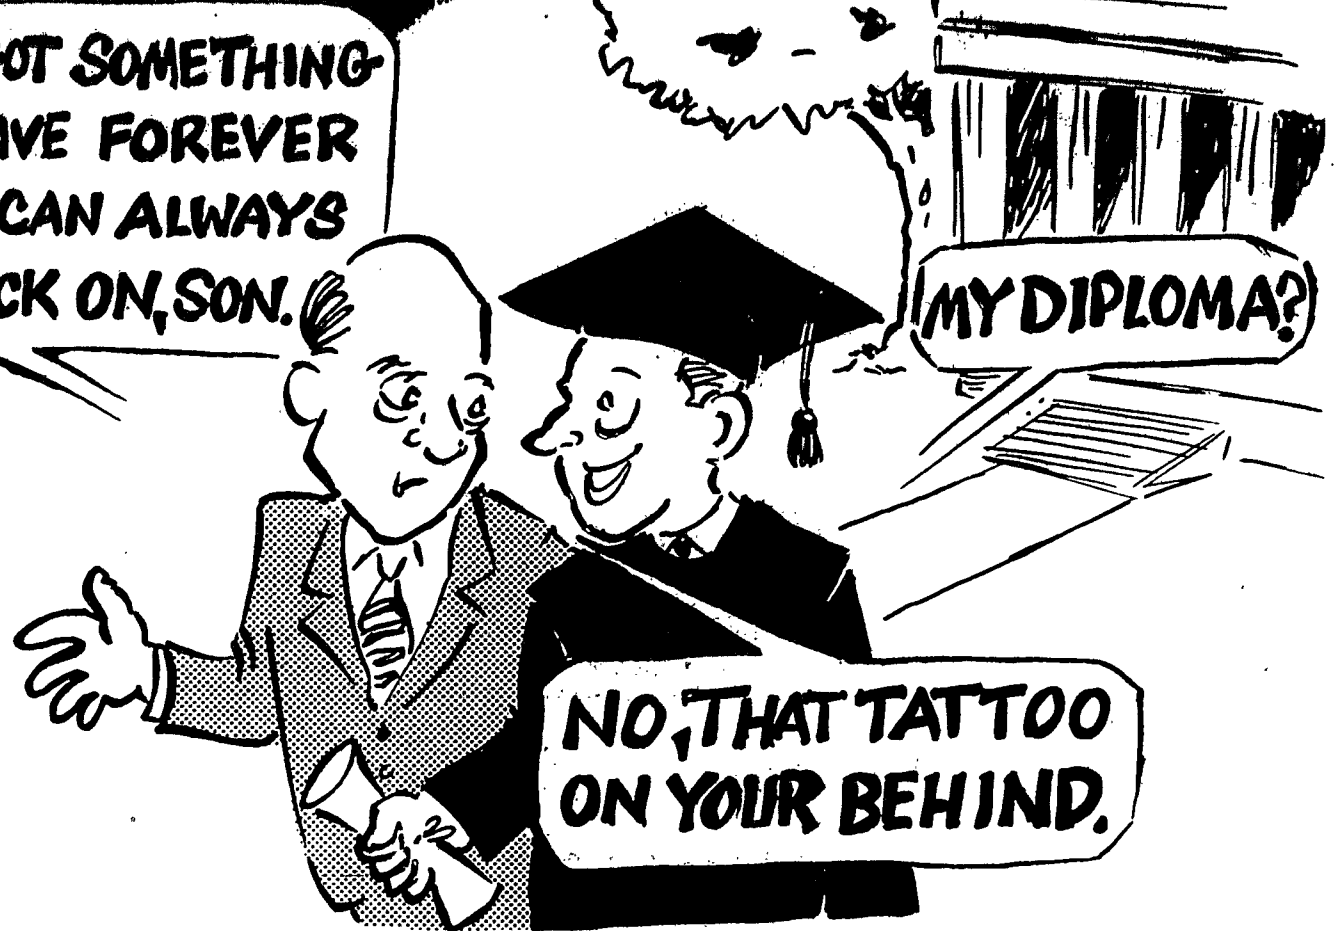

Our county is on the cutting edge in so many ways, and that is only because of the foresight of its leaders and residents.

Our youths need to realize that they will be the leaders of tomorrow and remember that it was the foresight of their forefathers who have moved us ahead of the pack.

Great things are now happening, and greater things are in the future.

YOU'VE GOT SOMETHING
YOU'LL HAVE FOREVER
AND YOU CAN ALWAYS FALL BACK ON, SON.

The future presents opportunity and challenge for 1999 graduates

To the Class of 1999, you are the last. There will be no other graduating class of the 1990s, after you. The 20th century has produced unprecedented miracles of technological progress. Humankind first took wing and conquered distance. We defeated Polio, replaced failing hearts, unlocked the secrets of the atom, and left footprints on the moon.

Despite unprecedented progress, humanity's record in the 20th century is far from perfect. From a pernicious decline in moral absolutes to petty warlords; from mass genocides to the pervasive devaluing of human life -- sickness of the human soul has characterized much of the 20th century. Perhaps the 21st century will witness fewer manifestations of the potential brutality of mankind.

You are the Class of 1999, but you are the men and women who will lead the transition into the 21st century. What strange places of inner and outer space will you of the new century explore? What scientific marvels and miracles of medicine will you create?

The graduation ceremony marks a rite of passage, a time of change, as important as any you will face. The decisions you make in the next few years will shape the course of your lives. Your parents, educators and churches have each played their parts, and you have responded accordingly. You now embark upon adult life in an era of innovation and change.

You are blessed to begin your journey when Mississippi's civilian labor force and residence-based employment are at record highs. More than 185,900 net new jobs have been announced in Mississippi since 1992, generating capital investment of more than $17.7 billion by new and expanding companies. Never has there been a better time to be a Mississippian.

The future is filled with opportunities, but also with temptations. Each day in this brave new world of swift transportation and marvels of communications technology, we witness remarkable successes and failures; the fruition of dreams, and occasional disasters.

The manner in which you meet your challenges will determine your character. Your future, the future of your Community, and the wider community of which we are a part -- all of this rests in your hands.

Now you enter your time in the sun: use your time wisely, for it is indeed your most precious commodity.

Class of 1999, your foundation rests on rock: be faithful to your roots. The world belongs to you and your children, but remember that any legacy must be nourished and cared for or it will become as dust in the wind.

May God bless the Class of 1999.

Medicare test at VA hospitals delayed

Veterans hoping for the opportunity to use Medicare benefits to pay for care at VA hospitals will now have to wait. Veterans had hoped that Congress would approve a test of the idea, often referred to as VA subvention, late in 1998.

There are two different bills proposing projects at Department of Veterans Affairs hospitals and clinics. They are: HR 3828, sponsored by Rep. William Thomas (R-CA), and S 2054, sponsored by Sen. Jim Jeffords (R-VT).

Congress recently approved a test that allows military retirees age 65 and older to use Medicare to pay for treatment at military hospitals and clinics.

All retirees are eligible to be treated at no cost in military facilities if space is available; but older retirees cannot enroll in Tricare and therefore have the lowest priority.

In the proposed test program, older retirees have already begun enrolling in a new option, Tricare Senior Prime; Actual patient care began at one of the test sites, Madigan Army Medical Center at Fort Lewis, Washington, on Sept. 1, 1998.

Like the Medicare reimbursement program for military retirees, both congressional proposals for veterans would establish three-year test programs with limited enrollment and capped budgets.

The test would be open to "Category C" veterans (those who do not have service-connected disabilities, and are not indigent) and therefore are given low priority for treatment. They could use Medicare to pay for health care at VA hospitals and clinics provided they are enrolled in Medicare Part B, which covers doctor fees, lab fees and some other costs.

If they receive VA care, Medicare would reimburse the facilities for 95 percent of the cost. The total budget for the test program could not exceed $50 million the first year, and the cap would rise to $100 million by the final year of the test.

The House bill contains a provision that would require VA to pay civilian doctors and hospitals to take care of elderly indigent veterans who live in remote areas and are not able to get to a VA hospital.

The bill's status may be determined later in the 1999 legislative year.

I wonder...

I wonder who is being held hostage now. I wonder whose gun just went pow.

I wonder how many children suffered today. I wonder whose parents have run away.

I wonder who's been robbed for their name brand shoes or who stole a car just to be on the news.

I wonder if people are losing their minds, and maybe our president should resign.

I wonder where morals and values have gone. Should the lack of them be allowed to go on?

I wonder how many people killed to be cool and why so many drop out of school.

I wonder why some girls are brutally killed after being violated against their will.

I wonder why kids are killing parents and friends. Will this cycle of violence ever end?

I wonder who is hungry and homeless tonight. Can't someone help them? It doesn't seem right.

I wonder why people are picked on because of their pimple face, and why cheap clothes are such a disgrace.

I wonder why some people are prejudiced and rude. Why were they sent here in such a bad mood?

I wonder why people vandalize their own schools. Don't they know people think they're fools?

I wonder why money is most precious to many. Shouldn't they help those who don't have any?

I wonder why families are being scattered. I wonder if parents forget what really matters.

I wonder if people search for their dreams at all costs, and how many dreams have been lost.

1999 hunting seasons dates and bag limits proposed

At a meeting of the Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks in McComb recently, the following season dates and bag limits were proposed for the upcoming 1999-2000 fall and winter hunting period.

Significant changes for the following hunting seasons include the addition of youth hunts for squirrel land turkey. Because of concern relayed to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks by the public, there will be a reduction in either-sex deer hunting opportunity on private lands.

In Marshall, Benton, Leake, Jasper, Jones, Pike, Walthall and Marion counties, antlerless deer harvest on private lands this upcoming season will be limited to the first gun season with dogs and the still season.

On private lands in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties, antlerless harvest will be allowed only during the first gun season with dogs.

In addition, archery hunters in Pike, Walthall, Marion and al District 6 counties will not be allowed to harvest antlerless deer until Oct. 30, 1999. Because of concern expressed by the public over the antlerless deer harvest, there will be no statewide antlerless deer hunting days this year.

The Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks encourages hunters to look over the proposed seasons. Anyone wishing to comment on the seasons should write the Executive Director, Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks, P. O. Box 451, Jackson, MS 39205 no later than May 28.

Shrimping closed, oystering opened

BY ED LEPOMA

The Commission on Marine Resources met in monthly session Tuesday, but did not set a specific date for the opening of the shrimp season.

DMR biologist Mike Brannard said the opening day will probably be announced by next week, and the agency can open the season when the number of shrimp per pound reach 68. On Sunday, it took 87 to make up a pound. Traditionally, the season usually opens the second or third week in June.

In other business, the CMR agreed to allow the St. Joe Reef in Hancock County open to oystering until June 15. Biologist Scott Gordon said the reef has plenty of oysters, but is infested with mussels. Additional dredging will help make the reef healthier, he said.

So far, the DMR reports about 312,206 sacks of oysters have been harvested in Mississippi through May 11. The catch is the fifth highest total harvested in the past 20 years.

Longo

Voluntary Services, a branch of the Junior Auxiliary. She volunteered as a nurse in the school, worked with the American Red Cross and spent time helping out in the Children's Ward at Touro Infirmary on weekends.

Longo obtained a degree in medical technology from Loyola University, then married John Longo and devoted her time and energies to raising a family of six in Waveland and helping her husband in business.

For many years, Longo became committed to her church and was an active member of St. Clare Catholic Church in Waveland, where she served as a lector and eucharistic minister, often administering to the elderly, those hospitalized, and ill members of the parish. She was also involved in the St. Clare Sodality and the St. Clare Elementary School. Since its beginning, Longo was appointed to the Bishop's Council on Women for the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi.

As her children began growing up, Longo became active in scouting and later was appointed a District Council chairman for the Gulf Pines Girl Scouts. Her faith in God and love for scouting and volunteer service was often recognized.

She received both the St. Elizabeth Seton Adult Religious Scouting Award and the St. Ann Adult Religious Award for exceptional volunteer service to Girl Scouting.

While her husband served as mayor, Longo began to use her med-tech skills again. She often volunteered to work at the Waveland Wastewater Facility lab and helped to upgrade the lab, later taking a full-time job when the facility was upgraded to a Regional Wastewater District.

Although now retired, Longo often volunteers her service in the lab today, and assists young students in the lab on science projects and other research.

Longo's other community involvement includes membership in the Nereids Mardi Gras organization, the AARP, and the Hancock Women's Club, which raises funds for needy organizations. Longo has also done missionary work, traveling five times from the Diocese to the Satillo Missions in Mexico.

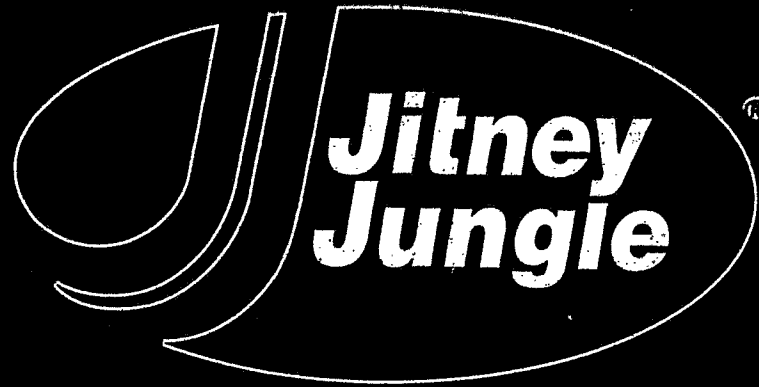

Longo's services with the hospice began during the lengthy illness of her mother in the 1980's. She cared for her mother, who battled cancer, in her home, until her death. Then, she cared for her mother-in-law, whose illness spanned several years, until she eventually passed away.

In 1992, following the sudden death of her husband, her children recalled Longo's focus on her own contributions to others. She told one daughter that she knew that Hospice was calling.

Longo has served with Quality Hospice for three years. She has said the real inspiration comes from the patients and their families, and she is rewarded by their overwhelming appreciation.

"Jean's service in hospice care is a true gift," according to Wheat. "She brings with her the experience of care for those close to her, her patience, and close relationship with God. In her unselfishness, she becomes devoted to her patients, giving from all her heart. In all that she shares with her patients, she will actually say, they are a gift to her."

Race for the Cure set in New Orleans

Over 3,000 participants are expected at the New Orleans Race for the Cure, May 23, at Waldenberg Park at the Aquarium of the Americas.

As a local presenting sponsor, the Southern Quality Ford Dealers will contribute give-away items at the dealerships and rice, display entry forms and posters and run Ford Division's "Race For The Cure" TV commercial. The Southern Quality Ford Dealers will also provide the pace car for the race.

The Ford Dealer's sponsorship is in conjunction with Ford Division, which is the exclusive automotive sponsor of Race for the Cure. The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation's Race for the Cure has had a growing and successful relationship with Ford for five consecutive years.

The national and local sponsorship includes a grand presence at each of the races, including tents, banners, give-away items and display vehicles.

In addition to the display on race day, the Southern Quality Ford Dealers will also participate in the Survivor's Luncheon/Pasta Party Saturday, May 15.

The race is the largest series of 5K runs in the nation. It is held in 99 cities with more than 700,000 participants expected in 1999.

The race raises funds for the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation and its local affiliates to eradicate breast cancer.

Some 75% of the monies raised stay with the local communities, and the remaining 25% goes to the Komen Foundation.

The foundation has raised about $136 million and has earned the reputation as the nation's leading catalyst in the fight against breast cancer.

Pearl farming could be major industry

Here's a gem of a business idea: Pearl farming may be coming to the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

The University of Mississippi recently hosted a workshop initiating the Gulf Pearl Project of the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium. The goal is to establish freshwater and marine pearl farming in Mississippi and other Gulf of Mexico states and tap into a billion-dollar industry formerly dominated by Japan.

Ole Miss scientists, along with researchers from other universities around the country, will lend their expertise to the project and help form a new professional organization called the Pearl Association of the Americas to promote pearl production in the Gulf states.

In addition to creating jobs in the Southeast, pearl farming also could help save some endangered and threatened species of freshwater mussel, said Dr. Marjorie Holland, director of the Ole Miss Biological Field Station, which hosted the Gulf Pearls Project meeting.

"All round, cultured pearls are formed around a nucleus made from freshwater mussel shells," she said. "This includes freshwater pearls and marine oyster pearls. The United States is the sole source for the shells that are used to form the nuclei."

North America's waters contain about 300 species of mussels, with about 80 in Mississippi. But about 70 percent of the mussels in the United States are considered threatened, endangered or at risk, Holland said.

Pearl farming could provide economic incentives to keep these species alive and well in the Gulf, and scientists like Holland and Ole Miss biologist Dr. Lawrence Shaffer will provide the scientific know-how.

Pearl farming is the most lucrative form of aquaculture since a single pearl can be worth thousands of dollars. And the Gulf states may be just the place to try it, said Dr. Barry Costa-Pierce, director of the Ocean Springs-based Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium.

"We believe the Gulf Coast states have the potential to become leaders in pearl production and thereby become providers of exportable technologies and products to the international pearl industry because of this region's strong aquaculture experience and advanced biotechnology sector," he said.

Under the Gulf Pearls Project, Costa-Pierce added, "Researchers and industry members will work together to enhance the economic value derived from the current mussel shell fishery and to establish pearl farms which hold the potential to some day rival those of Japan and China, currently the lead producers of pearls."

The potential for freshwater pearl production in the Gulf Coast states has long been recognized, but Asian nations have kept their pearl-producing methods a closely guarded secret for nearly 100 years.

That's about to change, thanks to Dr. Maria Haws, a scientist with the University of Hawaii Sea Grant program who has uncovered the Asians' secrets and improved upon them.

At the Ole Miss workshop, Haws said Hawaii Sea Grant "has been assisting with the establishment of pearl farms for six years, with the result that there is now a pearl farm and pearl oyster hatchery in Hawaii and three pearl farms in the U.S.-affiliated Pacific Islands. The Gulf Coast states can build on this experience to get pearl farms started even faster."

The shell from freshwater mussels is harvested and used to produce small, polished shell beads which form the core of all cultured pearls. The beads are then polished and implanted into a shellfish, such as an oyster. Over time, the bead accumulates an outer layer of material called nacre, or mother-of-pearl, which gives the bead its pearly luster.

May is Better Sleep Month

While scientists agree that a good night's sleep can make the difference in contributing to a healthy lifestyle, most Americans value its benefits to a much lesser degree. But like proper nutrition and exercise, sleep is essential to feeling and being your very best.

Sleep loss can add up. Even a minute loss of sleep may produce a serious sleep debt when sustained over several nights.

Current statistics suggest that more than 30 million Americans suffer from what is called sleep apnea, a severe form of sleep deprivation, primarily caused by snoring or another physical problem.

An even greater number of people suffer from typical sleep deprivation or not getting enough rest. Experts say there is no way of estimating the tens of millions of people who never get diagnosed with sleep deprivation.

"Those who experience chronic colds or other ailments," says Dr. Raul Coronado, chief medical officer of Access Health Systems, parent company of Mississippi Managed Care Network, "may really be experiencing the effects of sleep deprivation."

Sleep research shows that sleep deprivation can result in:

- Chronic fatigue or constant feelings of sleepiness
- Higher and sustained stress levels
- Quick temper
- Lack of motivation
- Slower reflexes
- Increased errors or mistakes on the job

On the other hand, healthy sleep patterns can help you think sharper, enjoy life more fully and generally feel healthier.

Dr. Coronado offers the following tips for maintaining healthy sleeping habits:

- Train your body to go to bed at the same time every night, even on weekends. Although you may be tempted to stay up late, try to keep to your schedule
- Do the same things every night before you go to bed. For instance, you may like to read a chapter of a book or have a cup of herbal tea.

- Sleep on a comfortable, supportive mattress, one that is not too hard or too soft.
- Exercise regularly, which helps to relieve tension. It is not a good idea to exercise right before going to bed.
- Do not drink alcohol, smoke cigarettes or drink coffee at least two hours before going to bed. These stimulants interfere with falling asleep and prevent deep sleep.
- Create a restful environment in a cool, quiet, dark room. The perfect temperature is 60-65 degrees Fahrenheit.

When you go to sleep, the mind and body do not turn off, the body re-energizes and repairs itself. Sleep allows the brain to combine the day's events, people and learning processes into memory and improves the ability to learn repeated skills.

The best type of sleep is a combination of light and deep sleep, which provide the most restorative benefit.

Mississippi Managed Care Network manages the Access... health plan offered under the Medicaid health program.

Tricentennial to honor Ladner descendants

The Long Beach Historical Society, as part of its Tricentennial celebration, will honor the descendants of Luis Christian Ladner Saturday, May 29 at 4 p.m. on Front Campus of USM Gulf Coast.

A Mississippi Archives and History Historical Marker entitled "Early Long Beach," will be unveiled to be erected later on Hwy. 90 in front of USM Gulf Coast campus designating the area as part of the Widow Ladner Claim.

Dr. Pat Smith, professor of history at USM Gulf Coast, will speak briefly on "The Importance of This Settlement to the History of the Coast."

Philip Hatem, a descendant of Nicholas and Marianne Ladner, the first Europeans to settle what is now East Long Beach, will unveil the marker along with Mayor Robert Bass, who will accept it for the city.

Some tidbits of Ladner family life will be shared by Bobby Ladner as he recognizes the oldest Ladner present, the youngest, the Ladner couple who have been married the longest, etc. Serving refreshments following the program will be 10th generation Ladner descendants.

Mary Ellen Alexander, president of the Historical Society, will preside. Music will be provided by Ted Gifford's Combo. Mayor Bass, Mrs. Alexander and Mr. Gifford are descendants of early Long Beach families.

The society is indebted to Nap Cassibry II for the historical information included in his book, The Ladner Odyssey, where he lists the descendants of the three sons of Luis Christian Ladner to the fifth generation.

According to Cassibry, there are more than 600 Coast families who have married into the Ladner/Ladnier families.

It has been said that Luis

Christian Ladner left his mark on the mid-Gulf area equalled possibly by no other man. All those who are his descendants are invited to attend the celebration.

The students were honored at a luncheon hosted by the Kiwanis Club for their help in the club's just completed annual Peanut Day fund raiser. This was just one of the community service projects that the Flying Tigers participate in during the school year. Students pictured are Samantha Polkey, Linda Adams, Shanda Mariotti, Van Nguyen, Shandrell Moye, Georgia Hurt, Stephanie Bartel Marc Johnson, Carrie Roche, Dustin Poore and Al Tate.

Coast Electric, Bay Motor Winding offer personal power systems

No need to wait for a hurricane or tropical storm in the Gulf to think about purchasing a personal power system. Ron Barnes, manager of Marketing & Member Services announced that Coast Electric Power Association has teamed up with Bay Motor Winding Inc. of Long Beach to sell and install back-up power generators.

"We are pleased to announce this new partnership," Barnes said. "It represents our desire to give our customers the types of programs and services they tell us they want and need," he added. According to Barnes, the partnership is offering three categories of generators chosen especially

Alcan manager travels to Canada as ambassador

On behalf of the Biloxi Tricentennial Commission, several people traveled to Montreal and Longueuil, Canada May 16-19 to visit the hometown of Biloxi's discoverer, Pierre LeMoynes Sieur d'Iberville and to pay tribute to the area and its people.

Lisa Michiels, executive director of the Biloxi Tricentennial Commission, said the Commission plans to present Montreal with a painting that depicts Iberville's departure from the harbor at Larochelle, France, on the voyage that led him to Biloxi and to the historically significant events that led to France's establishing colonies in the New World.

The painting is one of two in a Tricentennial series completed by Biloxi artist Frank Janca. The other painting in the series depicts Iberville's landing on Biloxi shores.

Michiels said the group presented the painting at the town's quarterly government meeting May 18.

Among those on the trip are Biloxi Mayor A. J. Holloway and Mrs. Holloway; Tricentennial Commission Co-chair Bruce Stewart and Mrs. Stewart; Michiels; Tricentennial Commissioner and French Connection Committee chair Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Munro; Board members Bruce Nourse; Dee Dee Munro and Pierre Langevin, who is from Mon-treau and helped plan the trip.

Langevin is a resident of Bay St. Louis, where he works as general manager of Alcan Cable. He said he hopes the group will be able to give a taste of Biloxi's French connection heritage to those taking the trip and to those they visit.

He also wants to clear up a common misunderstanding about Iberville: "Most people believe he is from France, but he was born in Montreal and left for France to pursue the trip (to the New World). His career as an explorer and navigator, though, was out of Montreal."

He also wants to remind Montreal citizens that they have historical ties to the Mississippi Gulf Coast. "It's like to invite them to come here and rediscover the links they have here," he said.

If it looks too good to be true, it probably is.

The past three years were among the best on record for many stocks and stock mutual funds. That's good news for investors.

The bad news is that some individuals are now making long-term investment decisions based only on what happened in the very recent past. Those returns were the exception, not the rule. Looking only at short-term performance puts your long-term financial security at risk.

If you need sound advice on investments that will stand the test of time, give me a call.

Marina — Facility now ready for operation

pleted at the foot of Pleasure Street off Lakeshore Road.

It was a happy crowd of county officials and others running for public office in the upcoming elections that gathered for the official ribbon cutting.

The Rev. John Kelly, pastor of St. John Catholic Church on Lakeshore Road and St. Ann's in Clermont Harbor, delivered the invocation and asked for blessing and safety for all the fishermen who use the facility.

Board President Philip Moran said the official opening was a "special occasion," and thanked state Sen. Scottie Cuevas and others in the local legislative delegation for securing Tidelands funds for the project.

Cuevas was on hand, too, and said he and the rest of the local legislation delegation would continue to pursue more Tidelands money in the future. He said the marina was an example of what can be done when all public officials were working together.

Moran noted that the marina was "another sign of progress that is taking place in Hancock County."

Moran said District 4 Supervisor Steve Seymour was in the hospital for tests, and couldn't attend the ceremonies, but the other four supervisors attended, along with Circuit Clerk Pam Metzler, Chancery Clerk Tim Kellar, and Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

County Attorney Gerald Gex noted that the marina was a project of the previous Board of Supervisors, and joked that it seemed like he was working out the legal details "for about 30 years." He said it was one of the projects he wanted to see become a reality before he retires.

Tara Moore represented the Department of Marine Resources and noted that the DMR had worked with county officials on the project since 1996 and had contributed a total of $1.3 million for construction of the facility.

Moore said marinas are in great demand throughout the Coast because of the rapid growth taking place everywhere.

A limestone-covered road leads visitors from Lakeshore Road to the 6.8-acre marina site. A total of 1,120-linear feet of docking space is available, with 580 feet of space on the east side of the marina and 540 feet of space on the west side. Boats will be docked end to end, so the size of the boats will determine how many boats can be accommodated.

The wharf area and parking lot is lighted, with electricity and water lines available to all berthing areas.

Before the marina opened, supervisors instructed the Harbormaster to take names of and commercial fishermen interested in leasing berths. Preference was shown to residents of Hancock County, and Sahuque said all the space is taken, and there is a waiting list of others wanting to get into the marina. A planned second phase of construction will accommodate recreational fishermen.

Supervisors still must approve the proposed lease rental prices, along with rules and regulations that will govern those who use the facility.

And, Tuesday, Sahuque

pointed out there were still a lot of last minute details to wrap up. He wants supervisors to install a sign at the marina entrance off Lakeshore Road to notify residents that there is a marina at the foot of Pleasure Street. And, he wants "No Wake" signs posted throughout the boating area and approaches. Sahuque already has two portable port-a-lets on site, and is making arrangements for a public pay phone to be installed.

At last Monday's meeting of the Board of Supervisors, Sahuque gained approval to move the trailer, formerly used by the general contractor, Malouf Construction Corp. of Madison, into the marina area and rent it for $150 a month for his temporary office use.

And Monday, supervisors also awarded a contract to Scott Favre's Panther Utilities Co. to construct the Harbormaster's building which will contain administrative offices and public restrooms that will be handicapped accessible.

Panther's low bid was $135,115, but there remains only about $112,000 in Tidelands Funds available, so supervisors will make a temporary loan from the Seawall Funds until Hancock County officially receives another $75,000 in Tidelands money that the DMR has authorized to continue the marina's expansion.

Sahuque said the marina was now officially open to the public and recreational fishermen, and he expects that those leasing space will begin to dock there soon, but their rents won't actually begin until June 1.

Bonds — O.K. given by Supers

refurbish 400 feet of bulkhead at the park's ship turning basin, expand the capacity of the sewerage treatment plant, complete Berth 3 at the Ship Terminal, and pave industrial access roads in the park.

At Stennis International Airport, plans are to refurbish the 250,000-gallon elevated water tank, construct 12 more T-hangers, complete Road D 400 feet from the airport to Texas Flat Road, and overlay the access road to Road D.

P&H officials have said that estimates on the costs of some of the projects were made years ago, so the bond funds might not be enough to complete all projects, but they would be undertaken on a priority basis.

P&H Attorney Robert Genin estimates after the bond sale, it would take from 90 to 120 days before the actual money is available for construction.

In other business Monday, supervisors:

- Concurred in P&H recommendations and awarded a contract for $129,485 to Environmental Remediation Specialist, Inc. of Ticklaw, La., to begin the earth work needed to expand the track storage area at the rail car wash facility;

- Authorized the P&H Commission to deed over to Hancock Medical Center a one-acre tract of land at Port Bienville next to the new Training Center for construction of a medical clinic;

- Approved a 10-yr tax exemption (except from school taxes) for the second-phase $7 million expansion of the GE plant at Port Bienville, and on its manufactured product;

- Took under advisement bids received on a computer-aided dispatch-police records management for the sheriff's department; and lease or purchase bids on one or two new bulldozers for the county Road Department;

- At the request of District 1 Supervisor Jeep Ladner, supervisors agreed to put out to bid the lighting and concession stand for the new ballpark taking shape on Lakeshore Road next to Gulfview Elementary;

- At the request of District 3 Supervisor Lisa Coward, authorized the county purchasing agent to get two quotes from firms that can provide two benches for the recently completed Dunbar Avenue fishing pier.

- Supervisors also declared Monday, May 31, a county holiday, celebrating Memorial Day.

Council — renumbering

particular, there are duplicative Union, Kellar, Drinkwater and Pine names to be sorted out during distress calls.

And residents in distress don't always say whether they live on "North" or "South" Beach Boulevard, Second and Toulme streets.

Council members agreed that they could resolve the street name problems without changing the street names — new numbers can give unique identity to any spot in the city.

Under the general plans outlined by Forester on Tuesday, street numbers will be assigned to every 50 feet of street frontage, in increments of 10. Locations will have four-digit numbers.

For instance, a block may have numbers such as 1010, 1020, and 1030 on one side of the street, and 1015, 1025, and 1035 on the opposite side. If a property has structures fronting a street and to the rear as well, it might have a package of numbers such as 3010, 3012 and 3014. The adjoining property would continue the ten-digit progression with 3020.

Ideally, the numbering system will give area officials room for growth as large properties are subdivided in the future for development.

Forester said officials would like to create a grid map for numbering, which will further allow exact identity of properties. A short street, which stretches only within one grid, for instance, may have numbers only in the 4000 sequence.

Despite the mathematics of a "more precise numbering" system, officials agreed Tuesday there will be some major adjustments for local residents to make with the transition — particularly with mail delivery. Postal authorities will have plenty of advance information, Forest said, to deliver mail to the newly numbered addresses.

One problem which faces a 50-foot numbering system locally is that many local properties have frontages less than 50 feet, particularly in older sections of the city.

Forester said that in such cases officials would work to assign street numbers as close as possible to the 50-foot rule.

Police Chief Frank McNeil and Fire Chief Robert Gavagnie said their department personnel usually cope successfully with the existing mish-mash of confusing names and numbers, just because so many of the staff are from Bay St. Louis and know the stumbling blocks.

That's not true, however, with ambulance personnel who are trying to find difficult addresses and are stuck with insufficient identification.

Council member Tad Black said he didn't realize until last week that the dividing line for "North" and "South" streets is Main Street. He said he thought Highway 90 was the line, rather than Main.

Council members agreed to leave those designations as is, however, because numbering can identify a locality with or without the "North" or "South" nametag. And, officials said the enhanced 911-computer system could be loaded with more precise information for dispatchers than in the past.

The improved computer system also will be able to identify what's in a particular area of note. McNeil said, for instance, a fire call from one address might take on added significance if officials know that combustible materials are stored in a neighboring property.

Officials also will be able to find the exact location of emergency personnel at any one time, and relay precise directions for an emergency location, council was told.

Even as council members endorsed the new numbering plan, some said they were reluctant to do so. "I'm not that excited about changing numbers," said council member James Thriffliey. "I don't like it at all, but I know we have to."

"I hate it," said council member Connie Lampley after the meeting. "but we have to do it."

In an unrelated Police Department matter, council was told Monday that a $70,000 grant has been secured to study the department's organization and operations.

Gulf Regional planner Jeff Loftus said the consulting firm Police Foundation of Washington, D.C. has been hired to do the study and produce recommended changes in the department.

Council members, however, were caught cold by the information, saying they'd never heard of the planned study or the grant. "We don't have a clue" about the matter, said council President Carleen Moran, who asked Loftus to submit details for council's consideration.

Council members said they wanted Loftus to submit advanced information on any grant proposals the city is submitting in the future.

In other matters Tuesday, council recognized a number of local students who participated in a tercentennial contest sponsored by the Hancock County Journalists Association.

Over 100 essays and artwork were entered into the competition, and prizes were offered for winners in different grade categories.

Donations for the awards, including $75 and $50 savings certificates, came from the local chapter of the Public Relations Association of Mississippi, GE Plastics, Casino Magic and Caroles Olds Towne Restaurant.

In another matter Tuesday, council approved the reappointment of Maurice Singleton to the Planning and Zoning Commission. Singleton's new term will expire in 2001, Mayor Eddie Favre said.

Council also approved a $20,000 change order to drainage project "C," which is under construction.

Favre said the addition will provide equipment which should help to minimize the disruption of water and sewer services during the construction.

Team Sports Teach Children About Life

Lani Jefcoat
MSU Ag Communications
Organized sports can promote personal satisfaction in young people and increase social acceptance if adults provide proper guidance. These activities can teach children valuable skills and lessons for later in life.

Dr. Louise Davis, Mississippi State University Extension Service child and family development specialist, said young athletes must choose a sport they find rewarding and enjoy. They must have interest in the sport to have a good experience in the activity and should not choose a sport simply because a family member has played the sport.

The American Academy of Pediatrics recommended waiting until children are 6 years old before beginning team sports since children do not understand the concept of teamwork until this age. Free play is advised until then, but all children are different and mature at different rates.

Find a program to match the developmental level of the child. Focus on a sport that fits the child so they can excel and not fail.

"Young people should not be pushed into sports if they are not physically and developmentally ready," Davis said. "T-ball is a good sport to start out with because it improves hand-eye coordination and contact sports are not recommended for young children."

Organized sports, even though competitive, are team sports that involve cooperation, teamwork and support of teammates.

"Sports impact young people physically, socially and emotionally, and organized sports can be a very positive influence," Davis said. "Learning to work together in a group and striving to achieve group goals are potentially important outcomes."

Young people also learn to practice sportsmanship and how to deal with success and failure, winning and losing. Children need to have the opportunity to participate in competitive sports, and develop the skills and physical condition that allow them to play effectively and have fun doing it.

"Organized sports provide a place for young people to feel accepted and supported by their peers and to receive posi-itive influence from their coaches," Davis said. "Coaches provide an additional adult influence in their lives other than parents."

It is the coaches job to teach the rules of the game, to emphasize and encourage teamwork, to look for positives and encourage sportsmanship while having realistic and reasonable expectations. Winning should not be placed above the values of play and learning.

"Parents also have an influential role in encouraging involvement and offering support from the sidelines," Davis said. "When parents are cheering from the sidelines, they shouldn't demean players, teams or the coaches."

Parents should be the model for a healthy, positive attitude that builds self-esteem. The attitude of the team influences the direction of the team. Parents can help young people understand the game as a game and not a pressure-filled event. Measure success in youth sports by progress and not trophy size.

"Parents should participate by being at games and taking time off the field to practice in an informal manner with the

Gridiron Rocks look to build on 1998 success

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

Now is the time that schools are hitting the gridiron trying to see what they will have on the field next year. St. Stanislaus is no different.

SSC is trying to prepare for the 1999 season after having its most successful season since the 1990 season.

The Rocks are coming off a state playoff season and have some large gaps to fill on both offense and defense.

On Friday, May 21st, the Rocks will entertain the Chalmette Owls in between the walls at the Brother Philip Memorial Athletic Complex.

The action will start at 6pm with a junior varsity contest followed by a varsity contest.

The format for the game is a scrimmage format. There will be no kickoffs or punts. Each team will be on offense for 10 plays. Each team will have two sets on offense. The scoreboard will not be used for scoring or keeping time.

Then, each team will put the ball on the 30 yardline and keep possession for an indefinite amount of time. If the team makes a first down, it will continue play. If not, the ball will remain the possession of the offense and will be placed back on the 30 yardline.

Depending on the decision of the coaches, there will possibly be a field goal and goal line format.

SSC is looking to improve on the great strides made last season when they led the Coast with the most All-Gulf Coast selections, including Coach of the Year in Coach Dave Kenson.

The Rocks will be looking to throw the ball quite a bit. Also, the coaches will be looking to see how well the line can protect junior passer Jason Santiago.

On defense, the Rocks have some major holes to fill due to graduation. SSC will need to find replacements for a starter at defensive tackle, defensive end, middle linebacker, outside linebacker, and defensive back.

On offense, the skill positions return; however, the Rocks have to replace a left guard, center, and wideout.

Rock third-year coach Dave Kenson commented, "Spring practice is about finding guys who can play for you. We want to see who can do what."

The team the Rocks are scrimmaging against this spring is a new one to this area, the Chalmette Owls.

The Owls are coming a 4-5 season in a tough division in Louisiana. Their team is a very young one with a second-year coach.

The offense is a I-formation. On defense, the Owls run a 50 formation.

Admission for the game is $3.

No surprises in 'Spring Thunder'

There were no surprises in the winners of the Spring Thunder Championship race with all the winners having won several times this season. Another note of interest, all the winners started from the front row and went flag to flag for their wins.

Wallace Allen shared the front row with Stephen Overstreet for the start of the IMCA feature where he was able to go green to checkers for the win. Overstreet did not fare as well, dropping back into the pack in the early going, allowing Ron Tubbs and Kalif Sellier to move into the top three.

Nick Sellier and Ben Stephens rounded out the top five in the feature race. Allen and Chris Moran were both heat race winners.

Mike Ladner was another driver going green to checkers to claim an easy win in the Pro Stock feature. Ladner moved out to a comfortable lead over Larry Cifra, who was making his first appearance of the season, and Jeremy Broadus.

Randy Eaton, who has been the man to beat in this class, could do no better than a fourth place finish on this occasion. Jeremy Eaton and Mark Dillard both won earlier heat races.

Hardy, Davis and Holifield for the remainder of the race. Schonewitz was able to make repairs before the race was restarted.

On the restart, Hankins moved to a comfortable lead with Keeton moving into the second spot followed by Schonewitz in third. Schonewitz was able to hold off Randy Walters and Keith Miller to round out the top five finishers. Schonewitz and Davis shared heat race wins.

Rodney Barber was another flag to flag winner in the Street Stock class, as he added to his list of wins for the season. Barber shared the front row with Michael Williams, who was a contender in the early going before mechanical problems forced him from the race.

Lady Eagles earn NCAA softball bid

The no. 8 ranked Southern Miss Lady Eagle softball team had another night of firsts when the squad found out that it would take on Oregon State in the first round of the 1999 NCAA Division I Regional Softball Tournament.

The Lady Eagles became the first softball program to make the regionals in its first year, or in its first year back after having the program shut-down. (USM's softball program was halted in 1992). Southern Miss also became the first Division I program from Mississippi to make the tournament as well.

"I am just extremely, extremely pleased right now," Southern Miss Head Coach Lu Harris said. "This team has worked so hard all year and has risen to every challenge thrown at them. I am elated for them, this school and this community. Now we must get down to business and prepare for a very good Oregon State team."

The Lady Eagles will open the South Regional with a 1 p.m. game at Tiger Park in Baton Rouge against Oregon State, on Thursday, May 20.

Southern Miss finished the season with a record of 48-6 and a national ranking of eight. The Lady Eagles were ranked no. 2 in the South Region, but had that reversed by the NCAA National Softball Committee on Wednesday. The national committee moved Southern Miss to no. 4 in the South and left some doubt as to whether or not the Lady Eagles would get in.

Oregon State finished the year fourth in the Pac-10 and has an overall record of 44-23. The rest of the field is comprised of no. 1 seed LSU (53-8; SEC regular season and tournament champions); Oklahoma (38-13; Big 12 regular season champs); No. 5 Long Beach State (33-19; Big West champs); and No. 6 Southern (31-12; SWAC champs).

The tournament will run through Sunday, May 23 with each of the eight regional winners advancing to Oklahoma City May 27-31 for the Women's College World Series.

"Our goal at the beginning of the year was to get to post-season and many people didn't really take us seriously," Harris said. "I am proud of our team for reaching their goals. But there are still many ahead of us and it all begins Thursday afternoon."

Required youth boating safety courses offered

BY ELLIS C. CUEVAS
The Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks will be conducting four more six-hour Boating Safety Courses in Hancock County.

Officer Andy Elchos will conduct the classes at various locations. Each boat operator must complete one six-hour course and be certified.

Young boat operators are required to successfully complete a boating safety course, in order to operate any type of motorized craft on the waters of the state.

The classes will be offered June 19, Jourdan Rivers Shores Community Center; July 17, McLeod Water Park; Aug. 14, Jourdan River Shores Community Center; and Sept. 11, at McLeod Water Park.

The hours will be from noon to 6 p.m. for each course.

A law which became effective July 1, 1997, says that all persons born after June 30, 1980, have to attend a course approved by the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

The law requires such persons operating a motor boat, (includes water crafts), to have a course completion in their possession.

The law also requires persons under the age of 12, while operating a motorboat, to have successfully completed an approved boating safety course and to have the certificate in possession. In addition, while operating a motorboat, persons under 12 must be accompanied by a parent, guardian, or other person 21 years old or older and qualified and capable of operating the motorboat.

For registration or further information, call the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks, (toll free), 1-800-670-9616.

Safe Boating Week May 22-28

"Boat Smart From The Start." That's this year's theme for National Safe Boating Week, May 22-28, according to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

"Each year, too many people across America die in boating-related accidents," Major Jimmy Laird said. "And what's really disturbing about all this is that about nine out of 10 victims were not wearing a life jacket at the time of the accident."

In an effort to combat these alarming statistics, Laird and other state and federal boating officials across the country are launching the 1999 National Safe Boating Week.

"This week of emphasis on boating safety is designed to reach more than 80 million boaters in Mississippi and the other 49 states with the simple message to Wear Your Life Jacket. Boat Smart From The Start," Laird said.

National Safe Boating Week is a partnership of the U.S. Coast Guard, the National Safe Boating Council, National Association of Boating Law Administrators, and other organizations.

"As we get into the really busy part of the upcoming boating season," Laird notes, "we can drastically reduce boating accidents and fatalities if Mississippi boaters will just take time to remember the fundamentals of safe boating. And wearing a life jacket when you're under way on the water is about as basic as it gets."

Sea Wolves split with Richmond

The Mississippi Sea Wolves won Game 2 of the Kelly Cup Finals to tie the best-of-seven series with the Richmond Renegades at one game apiece.

The win snapped Richmond's ECHL record 11 game playoff winning streak, and was the first time since Richmond's playoff opener that a team had scored more than three goals against them.

Richmond lost that game 6-1 to the Hampton Roads Admirals. The win also guaranteed Mississippi another home playoff game, which will be held Monday, May 24 at 7:05 p.m. in the Wolves' Den.

Highest score

On May 1, 12-year-old Nicholas Contreras, left, bowled a 716 series during the Saturday Youth League at Park Ten Lanes. This is the highest series for the Mississippi Gulf Coast youth bowlers. In photo with Contreras is pro Steve Hoskins. Contreras had three great games with scores of 265, 215 and 236. His average was 167 for this league at the time of scoring. Contreras is a resident of Diamondhead and attends seventh grade at Hancock Jr. High. His parents are Joan and Danny Contreras.

Hancock's Ladner first Shaw PRCC signee

Hancock County High School forward Mindy Ladner has signed a basketball scholarship with the Pearl River Community College lady Wildcats.

Ladner, 5'11, the daughter of Greg and Connie Ladner, is the first signee for new PRCC coach Dean Shaw. Shaw, who has a 350-130 record after 15 prep seasons, was named head coach of the Lady Wildcats recently.

"We are very fortunate to have Mindy as part of our team," said Ladner. "She is a super player and person and will be a great addition to our program."

A three-year starter and two-year captain for the Hancock Lady Hawks, Ladner averaged 18.3 points per game and 13 rebounds.

She was named All-Division 7 AAAA the last two years and was named to several all-area teams.

Ladner was coached by hancock's Sandy Albright who led the Lady Hawks to post-season play. Hancock was knocked out of tournament play with an overtime loss to Stone County, the eventual state champs.

"Coach Albright has done a great job at Hancock," said Shaw. "I look forward to a great working relationship with Hancock High School."

Attend biology workshop

On April 14, Bay High School biology students attended the SMEACO (South Mississippi Environmental and Agriculture Coordination Organization) workshop held at the Marine Park at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi.

Various schools attended the workshop, including Bay High, George County, Gulfport, Our Lady Academy, Resurrection, St. John's and St. Martin.

The workshop, for freshmen only, taught students about the environmental and ecological concerns on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Students would rotate with their school from station to station in 15-minute intervals.

At the end of the workshop, the schools competed in an "Environmental Jeopardy" competition. Students used the knowledge gained while at each station to compete in the contest. Bay High placed first in the competition and was awarded the SMEACO trophy for top honors.

Outback Steakhouse catered the lunch that made the outdoor event not only a pleasure to attend, but was a rewarding educational experience for students.

the poetry division, while McAndrew went home with two honorable mentions for his poetry.

Danny Gizzi from Gulfport represented PRCC, receiving a second place award in the drama division. Liseth Nelson, a sophomore from Pensacola, also took an honorable mention in the drama division. Chrissy Martin, a Nacaise Crossing sophomore, received honorable mention in the literary division.

Pearl River received a total of two first place awards, one second place, one third place, and four honorable mentions.

Cuevas named scholar

Amy Marie Cuevas, a senior at Hancock High School, is one of 251 high school seniors from across the U.S. who is benefiting from a scholarship for college from Coca-Cola Bottlers and The Coca-Cola Company.

Cuevas joined other high school seniors April 22-25 at the Coca-Cola Scholars Week-end in Atlanta for interviews conducted by leaders in education, business, government and the arts.

Scholars are evaluated on the basis of leadership in their schools and communities, academic achievements and motivation to success.

While in Atlanta, the students were honored at a banquet in their honor where Archbishop Desmond Tutu delivered the keynote address.

Scholars visited the World of Coca-Cola, the Atlanta History Center, CNN, and the Martin Luther King Jr. Center.

This week, the Hancock County senior found out she was named a National Scholar by the Scholars Foundation and will start college in the fall with a $20,000 Coca-Cola Scholarship to study at any accredited college or university in the United States.

The Coca-Cola Scholars Foundation annually awards 50 $20,000 scholarships and 200 $4,000 scholarships to high school seniors nationwide.

Gutierrez, Smith win Ole Miss awards

Kyla Lee Gutierrez of Diamondhead and Blake Damon Smith of Perkinston are recipients of $500 Montfort and Allie B. Jones Scholars Day awards from the University of Mississippi.

The Company has sold some of its products to the leading chain drug stores for years, but recently decided to make their entire line available exclusively through a totally new method called Referral Marketing.

Liquid Solutions Referral Centers are the key to this exciting new concept and the Bay St. Louis/Waveland area has been chosen to be among the first to have a Referral Center open!

What is the liquid advantage?

Recent studies have called into question whether pills, capsules, and tablets dissolve quickly enough in the human body to be effective. When a vitamin, mineral, or herb pill is swallowed, it goes into the stomach where it must be broken down before it can be digested. "If a pill does disintegrate in the digestive tract, that improves the chances that nutrients will be absorbed by the body. Most manufacturers either don't want to do the tests (for disintegration), or prefer to guarantee the vitamin via the brand name." UC. BERKELEY WELLNESS LETTER-NOV. '98.

Why Liquid Solutions Liquids?

Not all liquid nutritional products are created equal. The chemist doesn't simply add water and stir. It is no small task to hold the nutrients in solution and deliver label claims. Liquid Solutions are great-tasting liquid nutritional products for consumers who are looking for an alternative to pills, tablets, and capsules. The Liquid Solutions line of products are formulated for fast efficient absorption. They do not need to be broken down by the gastrointestinal tract before they can be absorbed by the body. They are readily bioavailable.

Summer Challenge is an excellent opportunity for youths ages 16-21 to apply what they have learned in school to the real world of work.

The program, funded by the Job training Partnership Act will serve approximately 680 eligible participants from Harrison, Hancock, Jackson, George and Stone counties.

Summer Challenge begins June 14 and lasts seven weeks, with participants working 32 hours per week at $5.15 per hour. To be considered for these positions, applicants are encouraged to submit a pre-application by May 21. A pre-application may be obtained by calling one of the numbers listed below.

Summer Challenge offers a chance of a lifetime for youths to work in their local community at prearranged worksites.

They learn the basic skills that will be necessary when they enter the workforce, help the community, learn citizenship skills and experience the world of work while earning money.

For information and an application, contact our office and ask for Summer Challenge information: 1710 Jackson Avenue, Suite A, Pascagoula, MS 39567, 228-762-3552; or 330 Courthouse Road, Gulfport, MS 39507, 228-897-1881, or call 1-800-562-7290.

Smolensky selected to Mentor Program

The Computing Research Association announces that Sara Smolensky, a junior at Mississippi State University, has been selected as one of 20 outstanding undergraduate women to participate in its Distributed Mentor Project for 1999.

Smolensky will spend the summer doing research with Professor Kathryn S. McKinley at University of Massachusetts.

The goal of the Distributed

Mentor Project is to increase the number of women entering graduate school in computer science and computer engineering (CS&E).

The research experience provides students with a window on research and graduate life and gives them a close mentoring relationship with a faculty researcher.

Matches between students and mentors are made by a selection committee chosen by the Computing Research Association.

Smolensky is expecting to graduate Spring 2001 with a bachelor of science in computer science and a bachelor of science in mathematics.

Upon graduation, she is considering graduate school for a master's in mathematics and a master's in computer science.

Smolensky is the daughter of Waveland Alderman and Mrs. Louis Smolensky.

The SSC mythology tree

The St. Stanislaus College sixth grade class has taken their analysis of mythology to a more personal level. The complement their English and reading classes, each of the 12 students has chosen and created two symbols representing their favorite mythological Greek god.

The sixth grade class has used this tree throughout the 1998-99 academic year to showcase art work and to observe special religious and school events. The tree was chosen because it symbolizes growth and beauty.

"We're studying Hercules and the Argonauts. We put symbols of the gods on the tree to remind us of our strengths," said sixth grader Alex Lott, son of Ms. Charmane LeBlanc of New Orleans.

"Their favorites have been the trident of Poseidon, god of the sea; the shoe of Hermes, god of heroism; and the lightning bolt of Zeus, the sky god," according to Mrs. Carol Gordon, sixth grade teacher at St. Stanislaus.

The Encyclopedia Americana summarizes mythology as stories told as symbols of

Salvation Army focus shifts from relief to recovery

The Salvation Army released 10 of its 20 mobile kitchen units from service in tornado-stricken areas of Oklahoma as service shifted from relief to long-term recovery.

"It appears that relief services have been successful," said Capt. Alan Will, director of the mobile feeding effort. "Many disaster victims I have talked with say they no longer are trying to recover personal belongings because it is too emotionally difficult. Needs are changing, and we are seeing less demand for this type of support."

Salvation Army officials have also joined with other relief organizations in requesting that donation drives for items be discontinued.

"We are so grateful for the generosity of individuals and civic groups to the plight of our community," said Major George Hoosier, Salvation Army's Oklahoma City area commander.

"Thanks to an overwhelming outpouring of love and support, we project that the supplies already here and on the way to Oklahoma will be enough. Our commitment is long-term, and we want to use resources wisely."

Ten mobile units are still serving meals to victims throughout neighborhoods in southern Oklahoma City, Del City, Midwest City, Moore, and the Newcastle area.

After the initial recovery period, many residents are now in need of long-term effort to help them get reestablished.

"My nerves are shot," said Loretta, an elderly lady who weathered the tornado in her Oklahoma City apartment and came to The Salvation Army's distribution center for supplies. "I can't live by myself anymore."

Loretta and her daughter left the distribution center with a cart full of supplies, a hug and a prayer.

Through Wednesday morning, The Salvation Army fed 127,670 people. Daily totals have continued to decrease since Saturday, when more than 30,000 received food assistance. Tuesday, 14,733 people were fed.

More than 400 families have received financial aid, food, personal hygiene items, cleaning supplies and other items from the distribution center, which is expected to continue operations for four to six more weeks.

Anyone interested in volunteering should call (504) 270-7800 for information and volunteer assignment.

No further goods collections are needed. However, because of the long-term nature of recovery, financial donations are still needed.

Monetary donations may be made with MasterCard, Visa or American Express by calling 1-800-SAL-ARMY, or they may be marked "Disaster Relief" and mailed to P.O. Box 12600, Oklahoma City, OK 73157, to P. O. Box 4857, Jackson, MS 39296-4857 or to any local Salvation Army office.

A Quiet Evening

Places in the Heart I
*A quiet evening,
A peaceful time,
A life worth living,
Because you're mine*

I compose my quatrain to remind myself that two people who care for each other can create a very private world, colored by shared memory. This has inspired me to create a three-piece print collection celebrating the creative power of love. Each print illuminates a line in the poem - A Quiet Evening, A Peaceful Time, A Life Worth Living.

We began with the passionate fire of sunset, the graceful shelter of a magnificent weeping willow beside a quaint stone cottage, the Edenic tranquility of a pristine stream flowing through a lavish flower garden. Here is A Quiet Evening born in the hearts of lovers.

MCH public hearings set for June

Mississippi's application for federal money through the Maternal and Child Health (MCH) Block Grant is open for public review and comment.

Citizens may examine the draft document and executive summary at any of the nine public health district offices -- Batesville, Tupelo, Greenwood, Starkville, Jackson, Meridian, McComb, Hattiesburg or Gulfport -- or in the Personal Health Services office at the State Department of Health, Underwood Annex, Room 201, 2423 North State Street, Jackson.

Individuals may also participate in one of the public hearings on Friday, June 11, 4 p.m. at the Orange Grove

Community Center, 13472 Hwy. 49 South, Gulfport.

Mississippi expects to get about $11 million through the MCH Block Grant. The State Department of Health uses the money to help reduce infant mortality and preventable diseases and handicapping conditions among children.

Coupled with some state funds, the money also provides mothers and children statewide with access to quality MCH services that promote family-centered, community-based, coordinated care.

Stennis sets Old Timers Day

All NASA and contractor retirees are invited to join current NASA employees for food and fun at the Cypress House pavilion.

Stennis Space Center's Old Timers Day will be held June 11.

The celebration is being held in conjunction with the NASA shrimp boil and will begin at 4:30 p.m.

Old Timers planning to attend should contact the NASA History Office at 228-688-2643 no later than June 4 to reserve a seat.

Community pride

Recently the Hancock County Boots and Buckles 4-H received a community pride grant to build a sign where they hold their monthly meetings. The Community Pride Grant Program is sponsored by the Chevron Companies and administered by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. Hancock County 4-H will be applying for grants for the Horns and Hoofs Club in Kiln and also for the new multi-purpose area.

Newspapers Enlighten, Educate, Motivate

When you give a child a newspaper, you're giving a world of wisdom.

Newspapers are a part of your child's road to life-long learning. Regardless if it's news from across town or across the globe, newspapers are windows to the world we live in. And the better informed our children are about our world the more motivated they will be as productive members in our society.

Share this learning experience with your children. It's important that you and your children read together to encourage their understanding of your world - and the world they will inherit.

Open your child's mind, share a newspaper today.

Arrest made in Union County for selling game fish

It's becoming harder to purchase illegal game fish in northern Mississippi as a result of a recent local arrest, according to the Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

Last Friday, local wildlife officers in Union County arrested Wade J. Yeager, 55, of Marshall County alongside US-78 near New Albany for selling game fish. Further investigation revealed that he did not have a commercial license.

Officers confiscated 87 pounds of dressed catfish and about 20 pounds of crappie. Yeager was arrested on site and taken to the Union County jail.

Local officers had advanced information that illegal sales of fish were going on in this area. Additional arrests are anticipated.

The public is encouraged to report illegal game and fish operations in their area by calling 1-800-BE SMART.
